

SAPPERS SIX

Brian Warburton

The Royal Engineers, affectionately known as 'The Sappers', are renowned for being brave, resourceful and always on the front line in combat. However, the world at large is often oblivious to the key role they have played in war and in peace.

This new children's adventure story, brings The Sappers to life for kids aged 8-12. Blending fact and fiction we are introduced to the world of the Sappers and the key job that they do. Written by a former Sapper, this beautifully illustrated book is a wonderful introduction for youngsters to the work of the Royal Engineers.

Subject: The Book, Title: 'Sappers Six'

Dear Branch Officers,

You will have already seen a leaflet drawing attention to my recent book. The enclosed copy is a donation from myself to your Branch.

As you know, this is a book for children. The general idea is that it would normally be bought by adults, as a gift for children, in the age range 8 - 12. This book is a private venture, not an official publication.

I hope that you will allow this copy to be passed around in meetings, to be inspected by all your members. The book will be of interest to veteran Sappers, perhaps having grand children and others in the family. It is of course suitable for boys, but has been declared to be 'a good read' for girls.

Any members interested can buy copies by telephone or post direct from the publishers, as indicated in the enclosed leaflet. This offers a small discount for Sappers. Or, it can be ordered at the regular price, from any bookshop (eg. W H Smith) otherwise at competing 'Sites' on the Internet (eg. Amazon).

Yours sincerely,

Brian Warburton
